For the parent: say these as your child colors. No need to go in order. Just talk.

- See the man paying the workers? He hired some early in the morning and some just an hour before the day ended.
- He promised every worker the same pay: one denarius, a full day's wage.
- When evening came, he paid the last workers first, and gave each one a full denarius.
- The workers hired first grumbled. They thought they should get more.
- The landowner said, "Friend, I did you no wrong. Am I not allowed to do what I choose with what belongs to me?"
- Jesus said, "The last will be first, and the first last." In God's kingdom, His gifts are grace, not wages.

Ask: How much did each worker get paid?

Answer: One denarius.

When the picture is done, pray the Septuagesima collect together.
